Packing.

When they go silently
Out from embrace
While a white mystery
Covers their faces,
Shall our beloved know
How he still shadows grow
Crossing our path below
Through empty places?

Rest shall be sweet for them
Under green mosses,
Crowns shall be light for them
After the crosses,
Though we loved tenderly
Earth found so slenderly
Their all the gain will be,
Ours all the losses.

When they go silently
Is it to sever
Each fond and faithful tie—
Part we forever?
Stars of our love below,
Though with strange light they glow,
Surely our souls shall know,
Knowing the giver.

Near, though we see them not,
Faces are glowing,
Sweet, though we hear them not,
Voices are flowing,
Giving mine eyes to see
God will remember me
When in his majesty
Silently going.

The Burial Places of Poets.

The departure of Bryant suggests a brief reference to the resting places of poetic genius. Joel Barlow, the author of the first American epic, died in Europe, and was buried there. Mrs. Sigourney was buried in Hartford, of which city she was a lifelong ornament. Joseph Rodman Drake was buried a few miles out of the city, in a private plot on the margin of Long Island Sound. Halleck found an honored grave in Groton, Connecticut, the place of his nativity. When disabled by age from his duties as Astor's clerk, he returned thither, and there passed his last days. Robert C. Sands, once a New York poet of some note, is buried in St. Paul's churchyard. Turning to British authorship, it may be added that Woodworth found a grave at Rydal Mount, near which he passed his happiest days. Southey is buried at Keswick, where the best part of his life was spent in arduous literary labor. Shelley and Keats give distinction to the Protestant cemetery at Rome, while Scott rests at Dryburgh Abbey, and Byron at the little parish church near Newstead Abbey. How sad and touching is this roll call of departed genius. The "Hermit" in the Troy Times.

The Great McCarthy-Ten Broeck Race.

The great contest between these two noted horses was set for yesterday on the Louisville, Kentucky, track. A Chicago dispatch of June 24 says: "Advices from Louisville indicate that everything pertaining to the McCarthy-Ten Broeck race is flattering. Both horses are in the best possible condition. Ten Broeck's heels are sound and he is as fine as he can be, and his trainer, Colston, and jockey, Walker, never liked him better. Mr. Walsh says Mollie McCarthy was never better in her life, and if she continues to do as well as now, and Ten Broeck defeats her on July 4, he will beat her at her best. The owners of Mollie McCarthy believe she can run four miles in 7.20 over the Louisville course. So the race promises to be the best ever run at four-mile heats in America.

The microphone of Prof. Hughes, which enables the human ear to hear sounds otherwise absolutely inaudible, is another illustration to the fact that great discoveries are often made by means of exceedingly rude apparatus. The original instrument was recently exhibited in London. It consisted of a half-penny money-box, a common piece of wood, common nails, and ordinary sealing wax, and this rude affair proved itself to be the ear what the microscope is to the eye.

It is gratifying to realize that our neighbor, Arizona, is advancing with a lightning speed on the path of mineral development. Forty bars of bullion in the office of Wells, Fargo & Co., in Los Angeles, is one of those early signs of progress which are continually emanating from that promising territory. We predict that, year after next, in the treasure outcome of the coast, the summary will read Nevada, California and Arizona, in the other named—Los Angeles Herald.

The 50th birthday of Queen Victoria was celebrated with the usual State festivities in England, on Saturday, May 25. Her majesty has been upon the throne of Great Britain for forty-one years. Only four of the English sovereigns have ruled for a longer period. Elizabeth reigned forty-four years. Queen Victoria, while not the oldest royal personage in Europe has held the scepter longer than any of her fellow sovereigns.

PROFESSOR F. V. HAYDEN, who has charge of the Geological and Geographical Survey of the Territories, has been elected honorary and corresponding member of forty-one scientific societies in foreign countries.

GLOBE CORRESPONDENCE.

Great Ado About Nothing.

RAMBOZ CAMP, June 24, 1878.

EDITOR CITIZEN:—Seeing in THE CITIZEN of June 21 an article from Dr. Robb of Oakvale, in which the learned Jupiter of Oakvale literature appears to desire to gain popularity at the expense of "Pioneer," a Globe correspondent to THE CITIZEN.

Now, therefore, as I have the honor of responding to that old veteran name, I will proceed to explain why I am assailed by the gallant knight of the quill above referred to. The most cheeky phase in the whole matter is that he calls on the author of the state, and malicious, to prove its falsity, and at the same time accuses me of extolling or in other words stealing laurels from Mr. M. Whalen, a true and genuine friend of mine, and placing them to the credit of Mr. R. H. Watson, an other congenial and generous friend. Now why should I seek to injure one good friend and benefit another, when I have nothing to gain by so doing on the contempt of men who otherwise are my best and warmest friends. Such is not the case. When I stated in my letter to THE CITIZEN that Mr. Watson was the first man that discovered silver on the Quartzite mountain proper, I wanted it so understood that Mr. W. was the first to discover and report silver on the main Quartzite mountain. And in regard to Mr. Charles Hayes finding that two years ago, he told me that at that time he thought it was copper and paid no attention to it until after the discovery of the Silver Era and Enna by Messrs. Watson and Milner. As to my friend Whalen, he and a fellow prospector by the name of Con O'Neil, who has since been killed by the Indians near Apache Pass, discovered and located the Legal Tender mine, (now the Jackson) on which location Mr. Whalen built the first monument in that section of the district, which is on some low hills joining the main Quartzite mountain on the south. A short time after he also discovered the mines on Mineral Hill, now owned by Mr. Bixby and others.

As a pioneer and prospector Mr. Whalen merits much honor, as also does Messrs. Hayes and Watson, and in fact all old pioneers are wearing away their lives in the development of this heretofore unknown land of mineral treasures.

Now I will conclude by saying to my friend Mr. Robb, that he must cast his puny darts or sharp accusations in some other direction and not at "Pioneer," for he has been too long in the country to be swept away like chaff before a deluge of thorny sentences from a fictitious critic like himself. And furthermore I don't wish to be come popular at the expense of any of my neighbors, but simply propose to state facts when I write, regardless of the mighty man of Oakvale above referred to.

From the Silver Belt.

George Stevens and family are in town. The Isabella mine is yielding for each miner employed $100 per day. The Turk mine are assayed 546.65 ounces per ton—owned by Wm. A. Holmes. Six men are at work on the Miami mine, which with that force yields four tons of $200 ore per day. The Hannibal Silver Mining Company are vigorously at work sinking a air contemplated 400-foot shaft. Shipped by L. J. Webster 2104 ounces 950 fine silver from Julius mine. We understand that the Merrill & Kluener mill will likely change hands soon. The parties who will probably get it understand milling. A soaking rain fell upon Pueblo Viejo valley and further down the Gila on the 19th which gladdened the hearts of residents of those sections. Farmers on the Gila are now harvesting wheat and barley. Crops are good. New potatoes are plenty, as also other vegetables. Lucy, who has just returned from Safford, purchased while there 20,000 pounds of new barley. He brought to this place 3000 pounds and will shortly bring more.

The day is not far distant when the housewife will glance into the woodshed and find the husband's daily allowance of fuel, will take down the phonograph, howl into it a volley of epithets that will register 160 pounds pressure to the square inch on the safety gauge, and then call out to her boys: "Here John, go down town and grind that out to your durned lazy old father, and see that you turn the crank lively, too."

SUTRO denies that there is an understanding between the Tunnel Company and leading mining corporations on the Comstock. The Stock Report gives Mr. Sutro the benefit of the denial but begs to be excused from taking stock in it.

The Alta says: Arizona has at last begun to hang some of her murderers. A good sign.

DELEGATE STEVENS passed Carlin en route to San Francisco on the 26th ultimo. He ought to be home this week.

A COLUMBUS man says he started thirty years ago to make $1,400,000. He has got the fourteen, but the ciphers bother him.

GENERAL EDWARD HATCH, William Stickney of Washington City, and N. C. McFarland of Topeka, Kansas, have been appointed commissioners to treat with the Ute Indians.

The Start of the '76 Mill.

It affords us no small satisfaction to announce that this new mill was put in successful operation on the evening of the 27th instant, in accordance with the programme published in our last issue. The particulars of the start are as follows:

The mill and machinery were in complete readiness. A flag-staff had been erected from the peak of the west gable of the roof at the top of which the American flag waved proudly in the mountain air. At 6:30 p. m. the whistle sounded, which was the signal for the start. A large concourse of visitors had gathered at the mill. The engine-room was crowded with eager spectators. Steam was turned on, the machinery quickly responded to its power, and in less than ten seconds the stamps were running at the rate of eighty drops per minute each, or 400 per minute altogether. Each stamp weighing 750 pounds, making the aggregate crushing power of 300,000 pounds per minute. About ten minutes after the start one of the stamps slipped a shoe, but in another five minutes the mishap had been remedied and again the machinery moved just as smoothly as if it had been run for months. Not a jar, nothing harsh except the copper rivets in the main belt passing over the pulley, but this will all cease as soon as the rivets are a little worn. Mr. Foreman was warmly congratulated by his many friends who expressed great hopes of a bright financial future for himself and his company. The invited guests then adjourned to supper, and the sounds of revelry were heard till after midnight hour. The whole affair was a most pleasing success and we trust, but tokens the greater success which every one wishes may attend the future operations of the '76 quartz mill.

Custer's Field-Glass.

About eighteen months ago, while Senator Christianity of Michigan was in the South investigating the election frauds, he paid a visit to General Wade Hampton, and the conversation drifted into war reminiscences. Among other military personages General Hampton spoke of General Custer, and expressed his appreciation of the dead hero in the highest terms. Senator Christianity replied that he was well acquainted with all of General Custer's family, had known him from childhood. Then General Hampton remarked that during the war some of the soldiers of his command at the battle of Brandywine had captured a field-glass belonging to General Custer and given it to him, and he (Hampton) had used it during the last two years of the conflict. Senator Christianity was asked if he thought Mr. Custer would like to have the glass. The Senator said "Yes," and at once wrote to Mr. Custer about the matter. She sent a letter to General Hampton, saying she would doubly appreciate the relic because it had been the property of two brave men, and she added that her husband had been an admirer of General Hampton. The latter sent word that as soon as he could get the glass brought down from his mountain home he would forward it, and the historic glass is now on its way to Monroe, Michigan, the home of Mrs. Custer, where she has a large collection of war souvenirs arranged in a cabinet.

June 23—Florence—J. Guindani & Co., 15 kerosene, 3 hard oil, 33 groceries. Tucson—C. O. Brown 1 cigar; C. H. Tully type; J. S. Mansfield 22 household goods.

June 25—Florence—J. Guindani & Co., 2 paper, 11 crockery, 43 groceries, 3 merchandise; L. Bailey 1 shoes. Adamsville—Richard & Williams 4 pump and fixtures. Tucson—L. Zeckendorf & Co., 6 dry goods; T. Welish 19 dry goods; L. M. Jacobs 2 shoes, 21 hardware, 5 matches, 24 sugar of lemon; L. & W. 64 hardware; T. O. & Co., 13 merchandise.

June 26—Florence—Silver King mine 4 stamp-steps.

On the 18th instant near Camp Thomas, a soldier ran against a citizen named Frank Montgomery, who resisted the intentional collision by knocking the soldier down with his six-shooter. A day or two later the soldier accompanied by five of his comrades, all armed with carbines, shot and killed Montgomery. One soldier was arrested, but he was released in defiance of the orders of the commanding officer. This looks like mutiny and we understand the citizens were somewhat alarmed and left the vicinity of the post.

GENERAL EDWARD HATCH, William Stickney of Washington City, and N. C. McFarland of Topeka, Kansas, have been appointed commissioners to treat with the Ute Indians.

McKenzie's Mexican Expedition.

GALVESTON, June 23.—The News Eagle special says: General MacKenzie and Colonel Shafter arrived here last night. Their commands arrive to-morrow. They penetrated Mexico about forty-five miles from Newton, the place of crossing, and about eighteen miles east of Saragoza, where they were met by a detachment of the Mexican army under Colonel Valdez drawn up in line of battle. The Mexican commander inquired the purpose of this invasion, informing MacKenzie that he had orders to repel the American invasions, and that he (MacKenzie) should not proceed further. The Mexicans position obstructed the American progress, and MacKenzie warned them to go out of his way, saying if they did not do so by 4 o'clock that day he would smother where the Mexicans were standing, at the same time putting his men in order of battle. At the appointed time the American advanced. Their number appeared to overawe the Mexicans, who hastily withdrew to a safe distance, but keeping in sight of the American troops. MacKenzie asked Valdez if he intended to obstruct the Americans' route again, to which Valdez replied that it was his (MacKenzie's) business to guard against that. Valdez offered a detachment of his force to escort the Americans to a place of crossing. MacKenzie declined the offer, saying that he was able to take care of himself. However, the Mexicans saw MacKenzie safely across the river. The Mexican force was inferior to the American, hence no blame should be attached to the Mexican officers for not attacking. No captures were made during the expedition. This is the American version.

William Cullen Bryant's Will.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The will of the late William Cullen Bryant was offered for probate yesterday to the Surrogate of Queens county at Jamaica. It is dated December 6, 1872, in his own handwriting. Besides his two daughters, one the wife of Parke Goodwin and the other unmarried, only two persons get any portion of the estate, which is estimated at $350,000. Had Mr. Bryant survived his children the estate would have been equally divided between his nephews and nieces and those of his wife. The bequests other than to his daughters are four acres of land and $8000 in money to the overseer of his estate, G. B. Cline, and $200 to the latter's son. The executors of the will are John A. Graham, John Bigelow, John H. Platt, George B. Cline, and the testator's daughter, Julia S. Bryant.

A Flood in Kansas.

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—Advices from southwestern Kansas say that a terrible rain storm prevailed in that region last week. At Winfield the rain, which fell on Wednesday afternoon, is estimated at twenty-five inches. The whole country was inundated and great damage done to crops. Bridges and fences were carried away and cattle, hogs and poultry drowned. The children of a farmer named True, living on Beaver creek, were drowned, and Mr. Bell, living on Badger's creek, was also drowned. Considerable damage was done by lightning.

Indiana Outlawry.

EVANSVILLE, IND., June 24.—Owensville, Gibson county, has of late been the scene of several terrible conflicts between outlaws and citizens, the last one occurring last night. The attempt was upon the life of Andrew J. ## Bernard Victorious.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Silver City dispatch. An assault made by Bernard upon the Indians at Curry creek turns out to be a success. It was a surprise to the savages, about forty of whom were killed. The soldiers were very cool in the charge. The Indian force present was estimated at 700, but was probably not so large. The Indians retreated to their stronghold in Stien mountains.

Howard, with the forces at his personal command is making forty-five miles a day, and will effect a junction with Bernard to-night.

It is estimated that the whole force of savage warriors number 2000; 103 camp fires were counted. The Indians will be pursued and there is every prospect of a protracted campaign as the Stien mountain country is well adapted for defensive operations.

Bannocks Attacked—Buffalo Horn, Their Chief, Reported Killed.

BOISE CITY, June 24.—On Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, Colonel Bernard overtook the hostiles on Curry creek, near old Camp Curry, forty-five miles from Camp Harvey and sixty miles from Canyon City. He surprised and charged the Indians, and turned and the fighting was going on when the messenger left. General Howard has pressed forward every man with the utmost speed to Bernard's assistance. Major Egbert is in a position to intercept stragglers, and in readiness for rapid marching in any direction. General Howard, with all the troops at Harvey, has started to Bernard's relief. Buffalo Horn, the Bannock Chief, was killed in the charge. Only one soldier was reported killed when the messenger left.
